

Colorado River Headwaters Scenic and Historic Byway

Get ready for a trip that blends spectacular scenery with quaint, rural towns that tell the story of their town in a museum in each location, as you drive the Colorado River Headwaters Scenic Byway. Each town has a unique story that springs from the founders of the town and the heritage they brought with them. The route travels through deep forests and gentle meadows, punctuated with tinkling brooks and brightly colored wildflowers. Flowing an amazing 1,400 miles from the highlands of the Rocky Mountain highlands through the American Southwest, the Colorado River provides water to sustain life in Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and California before it reached the Pacific Ocean. The Grand Canyon speaks to the power of this river to move mountains. Where the mighty river begins at serenely beautiful Grand Lake could not be more different than the dry, dusty, sandstone landscapes of the Southwest. Up here at the edge of the Rocky Mountain National Park, the Colorado River is no different than dozens of other clear brooks tumbling across the meadows. There's no indication that it will become a life sustaining force for millions of people. The Colorado Headwaters Scenic and Historic Byway follows the river along an 80-mile route through mountain valleys, canyons, historic ranchlands and aside lakes, as well as through high-country mountain communities. Explore the quaint towns and visit a series of local museums that tell the story of these authentic places.

Follow the River Experience

Driving the Byway

You'll start your journey at the eastern boundary of Rocky Mountain National Park in Estes Park. After exploring Estes Park, the next morning you'll have the pleasure of driving Rocky Mountain National Park's highway to the sky, Trail Ridge Road National Scenic Byway, before you reach the Colorado River Headwaters Scenic Byway. Bring a picnic lunch with you, since only the Alpine Visitor Center has snacks and there are no restaurants on Trail Ridge Road. Plan to take your time as you cross the park, and even spend most of the day. When Trail Ridge Road ends it flows right into the Colorado River Headwaters Scenic Byway at Grand Lake. After an overnight in Grand Lake, spend Day Three driving the Colorado River Headwaters Scenic Byway, exploring small historic towns of Granby, Hot Sulphur Springs, Kremmling and State Bridge, along with the museums in each of the towns to explore local heritage.

Day One

Estes Park

Sitting at 7,522 feet, Estes Park is long in majestic views of iconic mountain peaks and fertile valleys that splay out in every direction. Unlike so many other Colorado mountain towns Estes Park did not start as a mining town. It grew from a small group of buildings clustered at the corner of Elkhorn and Moraine Avenues when it was laid out in 1905. The early infrastructure of electricity, the water system and the sewerage system, was courtesy of F. O. Stanley, owner of the magnificent Stanley Hotel who came to the area hoping to recover his health. The needs of the residents were taken care of by residents with Western self-sufficiency for decades. Today, in town merchants and restaurants still sell locally made products and regional farm to table fare, while decorating in ranch, Western and lodge styles. Jeans and boots are just as common as flip-flops and sundresses. Galleries range from high-end, one-of-a-kind items to whimsical trinkets. On some days, wildlife is so plentiful that elk wander down the streets. After strolling through town, be sure to enjoy the bench-lined Riverwalk and charming sculpture garden.

Day One

Estes Park Trolley Tour

Since there is no historic walking tour of Estes Park, we suggest you start your visit with a two hour Discover Estes Trolley Tour to introduce you to the area. Knowledgeable guides deliver both the history of Estes Park and glimpses of what life is like in this small mountain town all along the way.

1340 Big Thompson Avenue, Estes Park 80517
970-481-8531 9AM-11AM Daily, 2 hour tour, $50 per person

Aerial Tramway

After your tour of Estes Park, get ready for a birds-eye view without hiking up mountains. The Estes Park Aerial Tram whisks you above the treetops to the summit of Prospect Mountain. One of few European-style cable cars operating in America, instead of using towers to support the wires, the tram travels across a free span of wires strung between top and bottom stations. Spend your time at the top marveling at the stunning views and get photographs of the gorgeous panoramas.

420 East Riverside Drive, Estes Park 80517
970-475-4094, 9AM-6PM, Allow 1 hour, $14 per person

Day One

McGregor Ranch

Ranching has been a part of life up here since settlement began. In towns with no mining heritage, it is still integral to life. Visit MacGregor Ranch to explore a living history showplace dating from the 1870s. As soon as you step into the front gate, you'll move back in time watching the Preceron draft horses and ranch hands working in the meadows. The main house is furnished with original pieces and personal possessions of three generations of the MacGregor family. Clothing, handcrafts, original paintings, rock collections, personal diaries, books and early photographs are all on display. Historic outbuildings include a milk house, root cellar, smokehouse, blacksmith shop and antique farm equipment yard.

180 MacGregor Lane, Estes Park, CO 80517
970-586-3749, Tuesday-Friday 10AM-4PM, Saturday 11AM-2PM, Allow 1 hour, $7 per person

Estes Park Riverwalk

After dinner, stroll along The Riverwalk following the Big Thompson and Fall Rivers as they wind through the heart of downtown Estes Park. Wander past babbling brooks and beautiful sights, statues, bridges, fountains and more all along the way.

Riverwalk starts at George Hix Riverside Plaza

Estes Park Destination Distinctive Accommodations and Dining

Destination Distinctive Accommodations: Hotel Stanley 333 Wonderview Avenue, Estes Park, CO 80517 970-577-4000

The Hotel Stanley is THE place to stay in Estes Park! Built by Yankee inventor Freelan Stanley, who arrived in Estes Park weak and underweight from illness. When after just one summer his health was better, he vowed to return each year, but had to create a life for his wife, who was not happy in the West. Together, they opened the Hotel Stanley transporting guests in stylish Stanley-designed steam cars. In a town mostly occupied by hunters and homesteaders, the hotel had electric lights, telephones, ensuite bathrooms, a staff of uniformed servants and a fleet of automobiles.

Seasoned—An American Bistro 205 Park Lane Estes Park, CO 80517 970-586-9000

Seasoned is a small restaurant with a defined menu, yet flavors that celebrate the cuisine of the Americas to deliver an exciting dining experience. An ever changing menu uses seasonally grown produce to inspire the fare of the day.

Day Two

Rocky Mountain National Park

With more than 60 peaks rising over 12,000 feet, Rocky Mountain National Park is a true Rocky Mountain high. A dozen magnificent alpine lakes feed the headwaters of the Colorado River – the same river that cut the Grand Canyon! Countless breathtaking vistas range from 8,000 to 14,259 feet with a third of the park above the tree line. Scenic vistas and well-placed overlooks allow you to take in the Park’s awe-inspiring landscapes at your leisure. Take a five-minute stroll for a magnificent view of Forest Canyon, Hayden Gorge and Gorge Lakes at Forest Canyon Overlook. Stand on the Rock of the Rockies at Rock Cut and Rainbow Curb, elevated more than two miles above sea level. At Milner Pass, the Trail Ridge Road meets the Continental Divide National Scenic Trail. Take your time and savor the views.

Trail Ridge Road Scenic and Historic Byway

Winding through 50 miles of forest and mountain landscapes, Trail Ridge Road National Scenic Byway, US Highway 36, an incredibly scenic road that offers access to the diverse ecosystems that characterize the higher regions of the central Rocky Mountains. When first driving the road in 1931, the head of the National Park Service was awe inspired, saying “it is hard to describe the sensation this new road is going to make. You will have the whole sweep of the Rockies before you in all directions – a scenic wonder road of the world.” Up beyond the aspen, ponderosa pine, fir and spruce, it’s usually 20 or 30 degrees cooler. Vistas from the marked pullovers sweep north to Wyoming, east to the Front Range and West into the heart of the Rockies. Along the way, wildlife, colorful ground hugging plants, debris from Ice Age glaciers and lush mountain meadows are common. Stretch your legs on the Tundra World Nature Trail, a half-hour walk beginning at Rock Cut.

Day Two

Rocky Mountain National Park Visitor Centers

Fall River Visitor Center offers a variety of ranger-led programs and activities, plus exhibits on wildlife management accompanied by life-sized bronze sculptures.

At the Alpine Visitor Center, you'll feel like you're on top of the world, at 11,796 feet, with views punctuated by mountain peaks and glaciated valleys. Exhibits here illustrate the amazing alpine tundra ecosystem. This is the only Visitor Center with snacks.

Just north of the town of Grand Lake, the Kawuneeche Visitor Center is located in the west side of the Park. Explore exhibits, the Rocky Mountain Conservancy bookstore and park films, as well as ranger-led activities in season.

Holzwarth Historic Site

The Holzwarths came to make their home high in the Rocky Mountains in 1917. As homesteaders they chose 160 acres close to Rocky Mountain National Park in the beautiful Kawuneeche Valley. During the 1920s, they constructed a home, cabins, sheds, and a barn, ultimately taking in visitors who traveled the Fall River Road. After a multitude of friends stayed for free, Mama Holzwarth suggested they charge guests to stay in a German-style inn on the property, soon known as the Holzwarth Trout Lodge. Mama cooked three meals a day for guests, charging $1.50 a meal which included freshly caught trout, soup stock, wilted dandelion greens with bacon, vinegar, and sugar, deer roast, biscuits, and boiled potatoes. Exploring the historic area is a look at the life of Colorado homesteaders up here in the mountains. Tour the Mama cabin to see the original furnishings, linens, and even her Admiral Blue stove!

7.4 miles north of Grand Lake, CO

Day Two

Grand Lake

Located on the serene shores of the largest lake in Colorado, Grand Lake has a breathtaking backdrop of Rocky Mountain National Park's majestic, snow-capped peaks. Known as the Western Gateway to the Park, you can enjoy this quaint town by taking a stroll along the historic Western style boardwalk, dating from 1879, enjoy an ice cream cone, watch fireworks, or browse delightful shops and galleries. On some days, moose wander right into town. At an elevation of 8,369 feet, the scenery is unmatched.

Grand Lake Destination Distinctive Accommodations and Dining

Destination Distinctive Accommodations: Grand Lake Lodge
15500 US 34, Grand Lake, CO 80447 970-627-3967

Now celebrating their 100th season, the Grand Lake Lodge has witnessed an incredible amount of Colorado history. Built soon after Rocky Mountain National Park was designated, the lodge has been delivering mountain hospitality to generations of travelers.

Huntington House Tavern/Grand Lake Lodge

Enjoy a meal on the mountainside deck of the Huntington House Tavern right at the Grand Lake Lodge, delighting in the rejuvenating beauty found only in the heart of Colorado.

Day Three

Kauffman House Museum

Operating as a hotel from 1892 to 1946, the Kauffman House is the only remaining log hotel constructed on the frontier. Today, exhibits tell the story of life in the early days of Colorado, featuring clothing, furniture, dolls, iron kitchen ware, books, quilts, stereopticon photos and more.

407 Pitkin Street, Grand Lake, CO 80447 970-627-9644
7 Days 11AM-5PM, Allow 1 hour, Guided tours available at selected times, $5. per person

Adams Falls

Stroll less than a mile from the center of town to Adams Falls, a beautiful waterfall named for an early settled in Grand Lake. After taking the third of a mile Adams Falls loop trail past the narrow rock gorge with an impressive drop of 55 foot of the falls, the trail then climbs to the top of the falls for an outstanding view.

Granby

Granby, founded by Granby Hillyer, was a stop on the Denver, Northwestern and Pacific Railroad, selected for its location on dry ground and views of the Rocky Mountains.

Day Three

Moffat Road Railroad Museum

It was quite a feat to build the Denver Northwestern and Pacific Railroad, the highest standard gauge in the US over 11,660-foot Rollins Pass. Originally planned to link Salt Lake City with the Transcontinental Railroad, the money ran out and the builder died. The 6.2 mile Moffat Tunnel is the third longest in the country. You'll learn the story of the tunnel the railroad itself in Railroad Interpretive Park that includes a 1905 Passenger Car, a 1925 hand cart and a 1923 Union Pacific caboose.

555 County Road 574, Granby, CO 80446 970-281-9094
Wednesday-Saturday 10AM-5PM Sunday 1PM-4PM

Hot Sulphur Springs

Hot Sulphur Springs was named for the refreshing hot springs used by the Ute and Arapaho tribes as healing waters.

Pioneer Village Museum

The 1924 Hot Sulphur Springs Schoolhouse was transformed into the Pioneer Village Museum to display local history including a ski display which highlights the humble beginnings of the Colorado ski industry. A selection of 8,500 year old archaeological artifacts from nearby Windy Gap has changed archaeological thinking.

110 East Byers Avenue, Hot Sulphur Springs, CO 80451
970-725-3939 Wednesday-Sunday 10AM-4PM, Allow 1
hour, $5 per person

Day Two

Kremmling

The town of Kremmling began as a general store run by pioneer Kare Kremmling, on Muddy Creek. He was later joined by the Kinsey brothers who called their holdings across the river, Kinsey City. After Kare moved his store to Kinsey, the whole town was called Kremmling by the locals.

Day Three

Kremmling Heritage Park

Six buildings in the Heritage Park Museum illustrate ranching heritage in Grand County, including MacElroy Livery Barn, the Hermitage Ranch House, a 1915 Forest Service Ranger Station, the Ritschard family fishing cabin, the original Kremmling jail, and the old railroad depot. Each building is outfitted to showcase a different aspect of life in the area in the early 1900s.

Street Address: 111 Fourth Street, Kremmling, CO 80459

Phone and Email: 970-724-9390 Friday-Saturday 10AM-4PM

Allow 30 minutes, $5 per person

Fossil Ridge

Did you know that the entire state of Colorado was one beneath a vast sea? A visit to Kremmling's Fossil Ridge features the largest specimens of the Cretaceous group

Moose Café

115 West Park Avenue

Kremmling, CO 80459

970-724-9987

A cozy restaurant and typical small town diner in the middle of town, where the food is very good, even though it takes a while to be delivered to the table.

State Bridge

Occupied for nearly 8,000 years, State Bridge grew when the railroad came in and miners moved from Leadville in the late 1800s. It was common to see Native Americans, trappers, miners, railroad workers, pilgrims, pioneers, gamblers, cowboys and saloon girls in town all at the same time. Hunters flocked here in the early 1900s after Vice President Teddy Roosevelt came to hunt elk in the Flat Top Mountains.
